

Students' handmade love for seniors

By Dan Watson
dwatson@the-signal.com
661-259-1234 x532
February 15, 2011

Opportunities for Learning student Gina Ballesteros, 15, left, reads a poem from her handmade Valentine's Day card to Mary Lou Schork, right, at the Santa Clarita Adult Day Health Care Center in Canyon Country on Monday. Five of the Canyon Country charter school's student council members delivered their handmade cards to each of the 40 participants at the center.

Opportunities for Learning Student Council member Isaac Recinos, 18, left, reads his Valentine's Day card in Spanish to Haidee Del Hierro at the Santa Clarita Adult Day Health Care Center in Canyon Country on Monday.

Student council member Ryan McPeters, 14, right, hands out handmade Valentine's Day cards to each of the seniors at the center.

Center participant Artemio Lopez shows off the red socks he wore for Valentine's Day.